Brand Guidelines

Version 1.0 | March 2026

playbook

Welcome to the Playbook Brand Guidelines document. This document provides a simple, yet robust set of Brand Guidelines that can be easily understood and communicated while leaving room for creative expression.

The following pages will guide you through some of the basic identity elements (such as logo, typeface & colour) and will provide some general rules for applying these elements across a wide variety of media types, collateral, print materials, and applications.

For advise on applying the brand identity outside of the guidelines, please contact us at Ben@playbook-group.co.uk

Our brand. It’s so much more than graphics and a few carefully chosen words. It’s what people think of when they hear our name. It captures the essence of our company – our personality, how we sound, what we look like. And it communicates, in an instant, what’s special about us.

Our Word marque

Our word marque is one of our brand's most important elements. It is a unique and bold signifier of the Playbook brand. The letterforms have been crafted to give a unique perspective, while the rounded letterforms are reflective of our unending trustworthiness.

The word marque should always be used in the first instance where possible.

The next few pages outline the principles behind the word marque and how to use it to represent Playbook in the most engaging way.

1.1 Primary word marque

The Playbook word marque is available in five colour versions: Black, Gold, White, Teal and Peach.

1.2 Word marque safe zone

The safe zone is defined as the area around a logo that excludes other graphics and typography. Whenever you use the Playbook word marque, it should be surrounded with clear space to ensure its visibility and impact. No graphic elements of any kind should invade this zone.

The space around the logo should always be at least the height/width of the letter ‘o’ as shown in the example.

Safe zone

The safe zone is defined by the height/ width of the letter 'o'.

1.2 Word marque minimum size

Never reduce the logo below the width of 100px/35mm. It is important that the word marque is always legible.

1.4 Social media icon / favicon

The Playbook icon should sit central with space around it whether it is in a square or circle shape.

Brand positioning

Our positioning line serves as a powerful tool to communicate our brand's unique value and differentiation.

It accurately reflects our brand's values, personality, and positioning. It's what sets us apart from competitors and resonates with our customers.

It is a memorable and impactful brand message that captures the essence of our target audience and helps differentiate us in the marketplace.

2.1 Our brand position

In almost every application (your website, proposals, LinkedIn, printed materials) your positioning line will sit alongside copy that provides depth, tangibility and detail. The line does the emotional work. The supporting content does the rational work.

Clarity.
Control.
Confidence.

2.2 Our brand proposition statement

Our brand proposition flows from our brand positioning line. It's a succinct, benefit-led statement that clearly communicates who we are and what we do.

Playbook brings structure to complex programmes, guiding the right people to the right decisions with clear thinking, healthy challenge, and experience-led advice.

Colour palette

Our colour palette is an essential character in our story. It helps to reflect how we want our audiences to feel and respond to who we are.

3.1 Colour palette

Our colour palette encapsulates our brand, and helps to give distinctiveness, providing relatability, strong personality and a stand-out tone.

3.2 Digital usage

For digital application please use the RGB and HEX colour breakdowns as specified. For professional printing the CMYK colour breakdowns should be used.

Please note there are acceptable colour variations between digital to print (RGB to CMYK/Pantone). The colours are matched as closely as possible to minimise the colour variant between these two outputs of digital or print.

3.3 Colour usage

The proportions shown here are a general guide to the use of our brand colours on applications. Remember to include plenty of white space on layouts to allow the content to breathe.

	HEX	RGB	CMYK
Black	#000000	0 0 0	0 0 0 100
Gold	#af7e56	175 126 86	25 48 65 17
White	#ffffff	255 255 255	0 0 0 0
Teal	#264852	38 72 82	84 53 48 44
Peach	#ffdfae	255 223 174	0 18 26 0
Pale blue	#c3dae2	195 218 226	CMYK 28 7 11 0
Sand	#ebe7dc	235 231 220	CMYK 10 8 15 0

Typography

Typography enables another layer of personality within a brand, it provides a point of difference and can help to convey messages with clarity and standout.

4.1 Primary typeface

Inter (Google Fonts) is our primary typeface. It is available for both print and digital (desktop/web) applications and is available in a series of weights.

The font is usable on assets that have been created in either print or digital format. Such items include website, social media posts, pull up banners, brochures, merchandise etc.

4.2 Fallback typeface

Arial is our fallback typeface, when it isn't possible to use Inter. This font is to be used for production of in-house material, such as Word documents, PowerPoint presentations, email newsletters etc.

Arial is a sympathetic alternatives to our primary and supporting font and gives you typographic consistency.

Tone of voice

Our tone of voice helps to define how we sound, it is our defining qualities and characteristics, and showcases our personality.

5.1 Tone of voice

Our tone of voice matches the enthusiasm our clients have for the projects they entrust us with. They have a vision, and we're just as excited about that vision as they are.

But they're also relying on us to deliver on a promise, so we balance this by sounding dependable.

Our projects are our product. So we say only what we need to say.

Never overcomplicate. Never overpromise.

Always focused on delivering.

The words we use say a lot about who we are. As such, tone of voice is one of our most important brand elements.

5.5 Brand personality

As a business, we have a certain way of doing things.

This, alongside our business objectives, informs our brand personality.

We are	...but also
authoritative...	human, bringing emotional intelligence to every conversation
independent...	collaborative, working alongside you every step of the way straight talking...	considered, cutting through the noise to find the clearest path forward calm...	energised, genuinely motivated by the challenges we take on structured...	flexible, adapting to every challenge as it comes empathetic...	decisive, knowing when to listen and when to lead challenging...	supportive, asking the hard questions with care and respect strategic...	practical, turning clear thinking into decisions that hold
focused...	connected, always keeping the bigger picture in sight

5.5 Brand personality

Understanding what we aren't is as valuable as understanding what we are. This dual clarity gives a complete picture of our identity.

We are not...

distant, we're with you from the first conversation to the final commitment

a design and construction consultant, our focus is always upstream, on the strategy and decisions that shape everything that follows

here to overcomplicate, clear thinking is always our starting point

5.7 Brand voice pillars

Our key messages are an extension of our brand proposition. These are some of the most important things we want our clients, both existing and new, to know about us. They have been created to show you how the Playbook brand voice should be applied.

Calm and considered

Playbook speaks with the quiet confidence of someone who has been in the room before. The tone is assured, direct and unhurried. The thinking does the work – there's no need to overclaim or perform.

This means staying composed when it matters most, leading difficult conversations with clarity, and giving clients the feeling that everything is in hand.

Clear over clever

Playbook says what it means, plainly and directly. The language is simple, the sentences are short, and every word earns its place.

This means getting to the point quickly, making recommendations with conviction, and respecting the intelligence and experience of the people in the room.

Compassion and conviction

Playbook understands that behind every programme and every decision are real people carrying real pressure. The tone reflects that — considered, emotionally aware and genuinely engaged.

This means listening as much as leading, acknowledging difficulty honestly, and delivering solutions with clarity and confidence.

06.

Imagery

Images play an important role in communicating the Playbook brand. That is why the quality of the images is so important.

6.1 Imagery examples

People

Always ensure the use of a good variety of images. Close-ups, distant, portrait, landscape, abstract and informative. And keep in mind that images should have room for cropping and sometimes the possibility to add text on top of them.

Compose images so that they draw you into the photo.

Remember that the subject is important. Make sure that the surroundings are not too cluttered or distracting.

Note:
Images shown are for visual composition only. They should be used as a guide to how your images should look and feel.

07.

Supporting device

Our ‘guiding light’ brand element provides another dimension for added interest. It’s the thread that holds everything together.

7.1 Supporting device

This graphical elements can be used as supporting devices to enhance the Playbook brand. It can be used in a variety of ways as demonstrated below.
